Public Notice: Meeting of Aviation Rulemaking Committee for Air Tour Management Plan at Death Valley National Park POSTPONED

The National Park Service (NPS) and Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) were planning to host a second meeting of the Death Valley National Park Aviation Rulemaking Committee (ARC) on October 5th to consider alternatives for an Air Tour Management Plan (ATMP) for Death Valley National Park. However, due to unforeseen circumstances that resulted in the Chairperson of the ARC to cancel her attendance, NPS has made the decision to postpone the meeting until such time as the entire project team is available to attend. Once the postponed date is finalized, another announcement will be released containing updated information about the meeting.

The objective of an ATMP is to develop measures to mitigate or prevent significant adverse impacts of commercial air tour operations on a national park, including impacts to natural and cultural resources, visitor experience, and tribal lands within or adjacent to the park.

For further information, contact Lelaina Marin, Outdoor Recreation Planner, at 970-225-3552.
